Four things to look out for this tax time

We have compiled a short list of items that the ATO will be scrutinising this tax season.

Additional documentation may be required if you are expecting to make a claim this year.

Increases to minimum wage and awards

From 1 July 2022 the Fair Work Commission increased minimum wages and award wages.

With these rising costs of labour, in addition to the current high fuel costs and inflation pressure - now is a great time to review your pricing and/or look at expenses.

Team Focus

We'd like to introduce you to our youngest team member Anthony, who joined Thorntons in July 2021 as an accounting intern. After graduating from Curtin University in December 2021, Anthony joined us in a full time accountant position.

Although only with us for just over 12 months so far, Anthony has gained a great deal of experience, and currently assists our clients with their fortnightly payroll, monthly and quarterly activity statements, as well as attending to tax and accounting work.

Anthony is a country-boy at heart, having spent many a school holiday up on the family wheat and sheep farm in Hyden.

These days he takes any opportunity he can to head back to the bush, and loves spending time out on the farm, and tending to his Yabbies.

Anthony is an avid West Coast Eagles supporter who enjoys watching his team play, as well as having a social kick himself.

After work Anthony enjoys a long distance run to wind down and relax.
